Atenor achieves the highest transparency score in the 2025 GRESB Public Disclosure Assessment

Belgium, La Hulpe, October 23, 5:45 pm CET

98% and Level A – A strong signal of trust and long-term commitment

At Atenor, transparency is more than just a word – it is a true commitment.

After a period marked by significant challenges for the real estate sector, Atenor wishes to reaffirm its unwavering dedication to transparent information, sound governance, and open communication. These values form the foundation on which the company continues to build trust, resilience, and long-term value creation.

We are particularly proud that this approach has once again been recognised through the 2025 GRESB Public Disclosure Assessment, which evaluates the completeness and quality of ESG-related information disclosed by listed real estate companies.

Atenor achieved an exceptional score of 98% and a Level A rating, positioning the company among the leaders of the European real estate sector.

Key highlights

- Atenor achieved a maximum score for disclosure, thanks to its well-documented governance framework and the publication of quantifiable operational indicators (energy, emissions, water, pollution, etc.).
- Its public reporting is comprehensive, fully aligned with leading international standards (CSRD/ESRS, EU Taxonomy, GHG Protocol, etc.), and externally verified.
- This performance reflects a robust ESG strategy, driven by measurable objectives and strong team engagement.

“This recognition is the result of the dedication and expertise of all our employees,” said Alexander Hodac, COO of Atenor. “In times that are not always easy, we remain true to our values. Transparency and integrity are the foundations on which we strengthen trust and create sustainable value with our stakeholders.”

Atenor’s excellent performance in the GRESB assessment confirms its role as a pioneer in transparency, governance, and sustainability.

The company views this recognition as a new milestone on its journey. In the coming months, Atenor will continue to develop innovative projects and strategic initiatives that place circularity, biodiversity, and social value at the core of its approach.

“With Archilab, our research and innovation lab, we work every day to turn this vision into reality. Projects such as Beaulieu (residential reconversion project in Belgium) and Oriente (mixed-use project in Portugal) perfectly illustrate how circularity, climate adaptation, and urban biodiversity can go hand in hand. Other initiatives will follow soon,” concluded Julie Willem, Director of Archilab.
